COLUMBIA, ADAIR COUNTY, KENTUCKY, WEDNESDAY, NOVEMBER 6, 1907.

NUMBER 52

THE RETURNS

Indications are that A. E. Wilson, Republican candidate for Governor, and the Rest of the Republican State Ticket, has been Elected by a Safe Majority.

WAS THE HEAVIEST VOTE POLLED
FOR MANY YEARS.

The Election was Orderly---Not a Disturbance in Adair County.

Columbia did not receive the Western Union bulletins on the election returns, but the information that reached here up to twelve o'clock Tuesday night was largely in favor of the Republican State ticket by a safe majority. The Democrats gained in the Eleventh district, but lost heavily in the Fourth and Fifth. At this writing it is impossible to give any thing a kin to a definite statement, but Democrats general give up, with the information in sight, conceding the election of the whole Republican State ticket.

The head lines in this morning's Courier-Journal state that Wilson's majority is 10,125.

For the cause of the defeat, there are several reasons, but the principal one was the liquor question, the distillers and retail dealers voting for the Republicans.

The information received here came from private sources, but as above stated, it is generally conceded that the Republicans have been successful in the State.

The majority in Adair county is about 365, and Cumberland 340, which elects Geo. L. Perryman to the Legislature over L. C. Winfrey by over 600 majority.

Metcalf county was carried by the Republicans by 225.

Washington county by 250.

Russell, 388.

Taylor gave a Democratic majority of 40, a considerable gain for the Republicans.

Green 182 Republican.

Marion 250 Democratic.

Barren, 760 Democratic.

Hart, 65 Republican.

Nelson, 600 Democratic.

Larue, 150 Democratic.

Grinstead was elected Mayor of Louisville over Tyler by from 3,000 to 5,000 majority.

The town of Columbia elected the following municipal Board:

Jas. Garnett,

J. O. Russell.

Our people were greatly surprised last Saturday when it was announced that Alton Packard, the cartoonist-humorist, would not appear here as advertised. It seems that Mr. Packard was a member of two bureaus and was billed for another place on the same date as the Columbia date, and the place other than Columbia claimed him. There is a good corn crop in Adair and the stores throughout the County are filled with provision, hence the disappointment will not keep from moving along in the even tempo of our way.

The new printing company at Campbellsville will, as we understand, send out their first issue this week from the Danville Advocate office. The paper will bear the name, "Taylor County Enquirer." Mr. Rufus Matthews having the name and good will of Mr. Conover, who lives near Columbia.

We would be glad if our correspondents would mail their letters promptly from now on. The election is over and we want to publish all the local happenings.

The roads are in fine condition.

Our land is posted. Shearer Bros.

Found:—A bunch of keys. They are at this office.

There are four or five residences going up in Columbia.

Born, to the wife of Whit Coomer, a few days ago, a daughter.

The election being over—everybody will settle down to business.

We commend the ghost for keeping moderately quiet last Thursday night.

J. R. Johnson sold Geo. F. Stults and H. T. Baker a boundary of white oak and poplar timber for $4,450.

The Columbia Singletree Company has started its factory at Breeding, a fine lot of timber being on the yard.

Dr. J. E. Grant and wife have removed from the hotel and have taken rooms at the home of Miss Minnie Triplett.

Last Thursday night, Halloween ghosts were not out in as large numbers as they were last year. A few gates were removed, piles of wood scattered etc.

For SALE:—About 5,000 strawberry plants of a very fine variety. Terms reasonable. Call on Dr. James T. Columbia, Ky.

Rev. A. R. Kasey, as is his custom, preached two interesting sermons last Sunday forenoon and evening. The services were held in the Presbyterian church, the furnace at the Methodist church not being ready for use.

Mr. Ernest Cundiff, one of Adair county's best young men, will please accept our thanks for a small quantity of excellent chewing tobacco. He grew it himself, and there is no better in the country. He has none for sale.

FOR SALE.

One good combined mare, one buggy and harness and one second hand piano.

L. G. DOHONEY.

Persons who purchased season tickets for the entertainment will be called upon in a few days and a satisfactory statement will be made. Another date will be fixed or the money advanced will be refunded.

The Dean land, embracing 2322 acres, lying two miles beyond Gradyville, was sold by Master Commissioner H. T. Baker last Monday. It brought $2,360 and was purchased by Dr. L. C. Nell. There is some good timber in the boundary.

Mrs. Willie Robertson, who is very efficient in whatever she undertakes, has returned to the post-office, and is working in the capacity of an assistant. Mr. Claud Montgomery, who was in the office in the most prosperous era of our State. They will find it out of debt with a new capital building, increased resources and money in the treasury. Just what the incoming party will do or what it will attempt to do is not for us to outline. Time alone can only reveal what will happen. If good, we shall gladly accept it; if bad, fearlessly condemn it. It is over so far as we are concerned, and with good will for all and malice for no one, the news will continue to do business at the same old stand, where it will gladly welcome its many friends regardless of political views.

The attendance at county court Monday was the largest for many months. The afternoon was taken up by political speaking. Mr. L. C. Winfrey who was a candidate for the Legislature spoke in his interest, and Mr. Luther Perryman, the Republican candidate, laid his claims before the people. Mr. M. Rey Barberay spoke in the interest of the Democratic State and Legislature ticket.

Mr. Daniel Rucker, who at one time was a citizen of Miltown, this county, died at his late home in Green county last week. The interment was at Bethel church, the Masonic Lodge at Greensburg and the Lodge at Camp Knox officiating. The deceased was 68 years old, and was an excellent citizen. He was a cousin of Mr. R. R. Conover, who lives near Columbia.

We would be glad if our correspondents would mail their letters promptly from now on. The election is over and we want to publish all the local happenings.

During the campaign we published a great deal of political matter, hence we did not have the usual amount of space to devote to letters from our contributors. We are glad the election is over, and hope our correspondents will begin now and send their letters promptly.

THE BANQUET.

Quite a Number of Young People Spent a Delightful Evening at the Columbia Hotel.

YOUNG MEN ENTERTAIN YOUNG LADIES.

Mr. J. C. Yates passed through here at twelve o'clock Tuesday night en route from Buckeekville to his home in Bradfordsville, having received information that his son, Thornton, had met with accident crushing one of his legs. Amputation may be necessary.

Mr. J. W. Morrison, who recently sold his interest in the Planing Mill Co. at this place, and who went to Louisville to arrange to move his family to that city, has returned and decided to remain in Columbia. He spent several days with his brother, Jim Morrison, while in Louisville.

In Adair County Sunday School Convention held at Mount Pleasant Church, July 13th, Rev. J. F. Turner of Columbia was elected President of the Teachers Training Class. He requests all superintendents of Sunday Schools desiring teachers classes organized to write him at the above address or call on him at his home.

Mr. Rufus Matthews, who has been getting out a paper, full of news, weekly, at Campbellsville, for six or eight years, has retired from the newspaper field and will conduct a job-office. The fraternity is sorry to lose Matthews. He was invariably found upon the side of right, and in denouncing evil doers, he called a spade a spade.

Dr. R. A. Jones, of Cincinnati, son of Dr. J. T. Jones, of Adair county, has just returned from Liberal, Kansas, where his brother, Dr. T. A. Jones, is practicing medicine. He was perfectly carried away with Liberal and the country surrounding it. He bought some land near the city, and he will build a hospital in the corporate limits as soon as he perfects his plans. He is now in Cincinnati, but will return to Kansas and will begin the erection of the structure soon.

A CARD.

I desire to thank my friends and neighbors for the kindness shown us during the sickness and death of my wife, especially Mrs. D. G. Grider and Mrs. C. C. Holt, who so unliringly aided me in my great trouble.

B. F. Lawless,
Jamestown, Ky.

PREACHING NEXT SUNDAY.

W. H. C. Sandidge, Ebenezer.
W. S. Dodgeon, Mt. Gilead.
J. F. Roach, Fry.
F. J. Barger, Glenville.
Z. T. Williams, Columbia.
J. C. Cook, Columbia.
A. R. Kasey, Columbia.
J. L. Wade, Mt. Carmel.
J. A. Johnston, Gradyville.
J. L. Wade, Russell Springs.

MARRIAGE LICENSES.

The following marriage licenses were issued from the Adair county clerk's office during the month of October:
J. DeWitt Wilson to Hattie Jones.
John W. Bennett to Nannie Fletcher.
Clarence G. Gentry to Lula Bryant.
Alfred D. Purdy to Effie Dohoney.
Perry McClister to Iva Loy.
John Bryant to Rena Conover.
J. M. Cabel to Georgia A. Basal.
W. G. Cabel to Alice Basal.

A FINE FARM FOR SALE.

My farm of 207 acres, situated in Bethel neighborhood, 34 miles south of Campbellsville, on Meadow Creek road, well improved in high state of cultivation. Good nine room dwelling house with soft and hard water in kitchen supplied by windmill. Barn 60x70 feet with water tank inside; hog-pen with cement floor; grainery and wagon shed; wooden hen-house, and all other necessary out buildings. Three living springs and fruit of all kinds. Write or call on me for further information.

62-2f Elias Copcock, Hatcher, Ky.

FOR SALE.

A good mill consisting of wheat, corn and saw mill combined, with 14 acres of land, dwelling, etc., one mile north of Joppa, Adair Co., Ky., and 2 miles east of Columbia. A desirable place—famous river mill plenty of water to run it.

51-2t A. O. Young, Joppa Ky.

A NOTEWORTHY BANQUET.

The great packing house magnates of the West had a banquet the other day. Men worth millions sat down to tables laden with costliest luxuries. They ate and drank and discussed how they might be able to conduct their business without government interference. According to newspaper reports, however, not one word was said about reducing the price of beef, yet that banquet cost $10,000.

Perhaps it would be expecting too much on an occasion of this kind, when men conscious of the power that wealth gives them, get together and feast on the fat of the land, for them to remember that such power represents the hard-earned money of the men and women of this country. Perhaps it would be too much to expect them to consider ways and means by which they would be able to knock off even a half cent a pound from the price of beef, a necessity in every working man's household. They were on the defensive. They had been placed there by public clamor against exorbitant prices. They were devising ways and means how to prevent government suits from being decided against them. They had no time for anything else.

And yet the solution of the whole problem so far as these men are concerned lies in honestly conducting their business and asking only a fair price for their products. This is all that the government desires to compel. There would be no compulsion about it if competitive conditions existed as they ought to in the business in which they are engaged. It is the stifling of competition to exact more profit that has caused all the trouble.

Appendicitis

Is due in a large measure to abuse of the bowels, by employing drastic purgatives. To avoid all danger, use only Dr. King's New Life Pills, the safe, gentle cleanser and invigorator. Guaranteed for headache, biliousness, malaria and jaundice, at T. E. Paul's drug store, 25c.

THE FOX THAT ARGUED.

The Wolf went to the Fox one day and said:

"See here, Reynard, I have had a dispute with the panther, and as neither of us would give in there is ill feeling."

"What was the row about?" asked the Fox.

"Why, he exclaimed that the Tobacco trust, by keeping prices up, prevented thousands of women from chewing plug tobacco. I contended that the high prices took just that much more money from husbands who would otherwise hand it over for stockings and handkerchiefs. Don't you think the Panther a fool?"

"I think you both are."

"Like enough, but I'd like the question settled one way or the other. You can see through a hole in a grindstone, and I wish you'd go to the Panther with me and decide the matter."

"Oh, anything to oblige. I was going over to Uncle Reuben's and spot off a new hen house he has been building, but I can do that later on."

The two soon found themselves in the presence of the Panther, and the Wolf explained why they had come. He also added that he could not recede from his argument.

"As to that, neither can I," replied the Panther, "but just now I prefer a new argument: Is ox-tail soup in a can better than Fox-meat on foot?"

The Fox made a bolt for it, but he had not gone five rods when he was pulled down and devoured.

Moral—Men who argue and lose their tempers may be fools, but he who comes between them to decide the matter is a bigger one.

SUPPORT HOME NEWSPAPERS.

The country newspaper is a power in the land. Its place can never be filled by the big daily papers or the bulky magazines or agricultural journals. It fills a field entirely its own. It is the barometer of the place in which it is published. Its news pages represent the life of the people, and its advertising pages should reflect the business activity of the town. It is the duty of every good citizen to give his support to the local press. Particularly the business man should patronize it with a view to bettering his trade. It is not money wasted to use advertising space in it. One good merchant in the town who understands how to advertise rightly, can bring trade to the town that will help every other business man in it. But all should do their part, and the storekeeper who does not give his home paper the support it merits is not the wisest kind of a business man.

Do not flatter yourself, young man, that your fortune is made, that you are a gentleman, when once you have secured a position behind Messrs. & Co's counter. You have an exceedingly hard road to travel to achieve any thing like success. You may as well understand it first at last. Unless you have a large amount of energy, and are willing to work hard and long and wait patiently, and have some natural adaptation to the business, the chances are that you will fail. Don't take on any airs the first year. The most detestable sight imaginable is a youth with half an intellect, half developed, puffed up with an exalted idea of his own importance because of his good clothes and six month's experience in a second rate retail shop.

He Fought at Gettysburg.

David Parker, of Fayette, New York, who lost a foot at Gettysburg, writes: "Electric Bitters have done me more good than any medicine I ever took. For several years I had stomach trouble, and paid out much money for medicine to little purpose, until I began taking Electric Bitters. I would not take $500 for what they have done for me." Grand tonic for the aged and for female weaknesses. Great alternative and body builder; best of all for lame back and weak kidneys. Guaranteed by T. E. Paul, Druggist, 50c.

LIQUOR DEALERS BARRED.

By the decisive vote of 430 to 72 the delegates and representatives in session at the Grand Lodge meeting of the Kentucky Masons at the Masonic building in Louisville voted to adopt an amendment to the constitution the resolution of James E. Wilhelm, of Paducah, prohibiting the entrance of any person engaged in the liquor business into any of the order's lodges. The resolution is not de post facto in its nature. It becomes effective upon all lodges in Kentucky with its formal incorporation into the constitution.

It provides that no distiller or saloon keeper shall be admitted to membership in the lodges of the Masons in the State. Any man who makes his livelihood from the sale of liquor is included in the resolution. A man employed by a distillery company, if not engaged in the actual sale of liquor, does not come within the scope of the amendment.

NOT AFRAID OF 'EM.

A dollar bill may carry to its receiver the vilest infection. It is a sponge that takes up filth and disease germs from every hand that handles it and from everybody with whom it comes in contact. We hope our delinquent subscribers are not holding back their dollar bills for fear they may carry some contagious disease to us. If they are, assure them we are safe having had the mumps, whooping cough, measles, scarlet fever, small pox and a variety of other diseases. So bring along your dollar bills and we will give you a nice, clean receipt for same. —Ex.

STARTING IN LIFE.

No young man who desires to succeed in business has any time to lose in shuffling about in experimental clerkship; and after finishing his school education the sooner he makes choice of his business for life and sets himself at work to learn and become successfully established, the better.

Young men can afford to make a mistake in his choice of occupation; the first choice should be the true one. For this reason we would say to a young man in regard to routine clerkship, by no means accept a place of that kind not even if the salary is large; it may seem large at first, but there can be no compensation to a young man for the loss of time. Indeed, we are of the opinion that a young man, at the start, had better work for nothing, or even pay for the privilege of going into an establishment where he can learn a good business, than to take an ordinary clerkship at any price.

POINTED PARAGRAPHS.

The average man is as particular about getting his hair cut as a woman is about seeing that her hat is on straight. —Ex.

A TRUTHFUL BOY.

How people do trust a truthful boy! We never worry about him when he is out of sight. We never say, "I wonder where he is; I wish I knew what he is doing; I wonder whom he is with; I wonder why he doesn't come home." Nothing of the sort. We know he is all right, and that when he does come home we will know all about it and get it straight. We don't have to ask him where he is going and how long he will be gone every time he leaves the house. We don't have to call him back and make him "solemnly promise" the same thing over and over or three times. When he says, "Yes, I will, or 'No, I won't' just once, that settles it.

A Significant Prayer.

"May the Lord help you make Bucken's Arnica Salve known to all," writes J. G. Jenkins, of Chapel Hill, N. C. It quickly took the pain out of a felon for me and cured it in a wonderfully short time. Best on earth for sores, burns and wounds. 25c at T. E. Paul's drug store.

LOUISVILLE WOOD FIBER PLASTER

Is a substitute for common lime mortar. There is intelligent economy in the use of this material. The use of common lime mortar for plastering makes a weak and uncertain ceiling, as it is liable to fall any time and cause several hundred dollars damages. You can den it like wood; containing no sand you can saw or nail it like wood.

MY CHILDHOOD'S HOME

How dear to me is my childhood's home
And the Russell county hills
Where I roamed in childhood's happy hours
And plucked the Springtime's earliest flowers.
That grew 'neath the wildwood's leafy borders.
Beside the sparkling rills.
I remember the place where we used to play
Beneath the old oaks shade;
We hung in its branches great high swing.
With laughter we made all the old
woods ring,
We were happy as the birds in Spring,
As in our glee we played.

Oh vanished pleasures! Happy days!
Time can never efface

The memory of our childhood joys,
And the mother who loved her girls and boys
Who listened alike to our griefs and joys,
Sitting round the old fire place.

I, in fancy, think I see her now
The Bible on her knee.

We sing again those sacred airs,
I can hear my dear old father's prayers

And the kind words that were spoken
there,
Seem floating back to me.

We gave no thoughts to the future then;
Our hearts were free from care.
Deserted now is that old fireside,

For Time's swift stream with its whirling tide
Has drifted the children far and wide
Who used to gather there.

And to Eternity's far shore
Dear old father and mother's gone,
And silence reigns over all,

Where once the children's merry calls
Went echoing loudly over it all,
The old farm is now alone.

Now from the busy cares of life,
I love to steal away,

And think of that old farm where its streams

Are dancing in the sun's bright beams,

And feed my fancy with fond dreams
Of youth's bright summer days.

The memory of that dear old home
Has filled my heart with pain,
I would give the world to turn life's tide

And backward to my childhood glide,
And sit once more by the old fireside

And see the dear ones again.

ALWAYS CHEERFUL.

Brown's cheerfulness was a source of wonder and admiration to his friends, according to the Ladies' Home Journal. Either his religion or his philosophy taught him to accept everything as a wise dispensation. But then he had a large share of worldly goods, his friends argued, and nothing but adversity would shake his faith.

Therefore when a promising crop was washed away by a flood the neighbors were much astonished to hear him say: "It's all for the best. I was blessed with an overabundance last year."

In the winter his house was burned to the ground. To his neighbor's solicitations he calmly responded, "The house never suited us anyway, so it is all for the best."

Other calamities befall Brown, but still he refused to be disheartened.

The climax came when he was in a railroad accident. Both feet were so badly crushed that amputation was necessary.

Sympathetic friends gathered from all quarters. They dreaded to hear the lamentations they were sure would greet them, for even Brown could hardly be expected to pass this lightly by.

"Guess you are pretty well discouraged, aren't you with both feet cut off?" ventured some one.

"Do you think this is all for the best?"

But Brown nodded his head,
smiling wanly, and said:

"They were always cold anyway!"

HAPPY MARRIAGES.

If marriage meant the wedding of a saint and an angel there would be no problems to solve, no perfections to attain, no progress to make. This may be why there are no marriages in heaven.

On earth it is different. Husband and wife are strongly human. No matter how lovingly united or how sweet their accord, they never have the same temperaments, tendencies or tastes.

Their needs are different, their manner of looking at things is not identical and in varying ways their individualities asserts themselves. At any critical moment if both express at the same time a desire to defer to the other's taste the result is foreordained—happiness. This makes matrimony not merely union, but union and unity.

The spirit of compromise does not mean a continuous performance in the way of self surrender and self sacrifice; it does not mean ceasing to be a voice and becoming an echo; it does not imply or justify the loss of individuality. It means simply the instinctive recognition of the best way out of a difficulty, the quickest tacking to avoid a collision, the kindly view of tolerance in the presence of weakness and errors of another, the courage to meet an explanation half way, the generosity to be first to apologize for a discord, the largeness of mind that does not fear a sacrifice of dignity in surrendering in the interests of the highest harmony of the two rather than the personal vanity.—Delineator.

THE WAY TO WIN.

Richard Canfield has abandoned Saratoga. He says there are no longer any spenders there, and it is impossible to make the famous Saratoga Club pay.

"I liked Saratoga," he said gloomily the other day. "I made my clubhouse and grounds one of the show places of America. But, of course, it had to pay. Everything must pay—at least in this country. Everything, in the end, comes down to a question of money."

Mr. Canfield lighted a huge black cigar and frowned.

"Everything must pay, and hence," he resumed, "there was a truth in the advertisement that a young man answered one day.

"The advertisement said:

"How to Win the Girl You Love. Full and explicit directions sent in sealed, plain envelopes on receipt of one dollar."

"This young man, who loved a girl madly and hopelessly, sent a dollar and the answer came to him by return mail. It read:

"How to Win the Girl You Love. Get $1,000,000 and let her look at it."—San Antonio Express.

CONUNDRUMS.

Who dares to sit before the queen with his hat on? The coachman.

When is a doctor most annoyed? When he is out of patients.

Why is a defeated army like wool? Because it is worsted.

What relation is a doormat to a doorstep? A step-father.

Who was the first person in history who had a bang on the forehead? Goliath.

Why is a girl's belt like a scavenger? Because it goes round and gathers up the waist (waste).

Why is an inn like a cemetery? It is a resting place for travelers.

Why is an old umbrella that has been lost and found as good as a new one? Because it is recovered.

What is that which has many leaves but no stem? A book.

Why are blouses like little girls? They become women.

What is the different between charity and a tailor? One covers a multitude of sins, the other a multitude of sinners.

What is that which a rich man wants, a poor man has, a miser spends, a spendthrift saves, and we all take with us to the grave? Nothing.

HER BAD BARGAIN.

He said: "I'm the meanest man in the world; I know I am. I went home the other evening and I was feeling pretty good, you know. My wife didn't say a word, but about 2:41 a. m. I woke up and observed a ghostly figure going through my clothes. I snored gently. In a minute or two the figure drew something from a vest pocket, looked at it in the faint moonlight, appeared to ponder for a short time, went to a bureau, secured something, put it in the vest and came back to bed I was still snoring. The next morning I found a dollar bill and 40 cents in change in my vest. You see, she thought I would suspect something if there wasn't anything at all in my pockets, and when she took the $10 note she put in the $1.40. I would like to see her expression when some clerk hands her back that $10 Confederate note today."—Argonaut.

THE FAIR SEX.

A woman would rather be tailor-made than self-made.

By holding her tongue a woman can keep a man guessing.

Woman's nature is a mystery that man has never been able to solve.

Woman's missing sense of humor has kept many a man from making a fool of himself.

A woman always imagines she is charitable when she lets her husband have his own way.

When a woman takes up the physical culture fad she's anxious either to put on fat or take it off.

CHAS. S. HARRIS - EDITOR

Democratic newspaper devoted to the interests of the city of Columbia and the people of Adair and adjacent counties.

Entered at the Columbia Postoffice as second class mail matter.

Mrs. Robt. Kirtly and Eddie Flack, a young man, are in jail at Mt. Sterling charged with murdering Robt. Kirtly, the woman's husband.

There were no runs of much consequence in financial circles of New York last week. Gold from Europe is arriving, and it begins to look like trouble is at an end.

It comes from Washington that conservative financial leaders have requested President Roosevelt to call an extra session of Congress to deal with the currency question. In the event an extra session is not called the President is requested to issue a statement to the country.

Hon. R. C. Warren, who was a prominent citizen of Stanford, died last Friday night with a complication of diseases. When the end came he was the County Judge of Lincoln county. He had also served his judicial district as Commonwealth's Attorney. He was a brother-in-law of Ex-Gov. W. O. Bradley.

The Following is a Biography of "Our Fallen Hero."

Born forty-eight years ago in the little county of Magoffin, at the foot of the Cumberland mountains, Judge S. W. Hager grew to young manhood in the mountain hamlet of Salyersville, its county seat and the home of the leading people of that section of Kentucky. His father was William J. Hager, a successful merchant and one of the best known men of that section of the State. His mother, Phoebe Ann Hager, was a native of Gallia county, Ohio, and of Kentucky adoption. Like so many Kentuckians who have achieved distinction, Judge Hager obtained his first scholastic training in the humble schools of the county of his birth. He, later, attended the State A & M College, at Lexington. Going back home, after his college career, young Hager went into the schools at Salyersville as a teacher. There he spent two years. Twenty-one years ago he changed his place of residence to Ashland, Boyd county, the gateway to the richest section of eastern Kentucky. There he engaged in business, later becoming President of the Merchants National Bank. That position he held until he became an official of the State of Kentucky, eight years ago.

Judge Hager first entered public life in 1897, when, over his protest, the Democracy of Boyd County placed him at the head of their county ticket as the nominee for County Judge. Notwithstanding that Boyd county had, in 1895, given William McKinley a majority of about eight hundred votes, Judge Hager carried it by more than three hundred majority over his opponent. His standing was such that the county supported him openly. Having this first taste of politics, Judge Hager enjoyed the game, and soon became the most prominent man in his Congressional District. This brought him to the attention of the leaders in State politics; and, when the convention of 1899 met at Louisville, he was easily the choice of the Democrats of the State for Treasurer of Kentucky. In that convention he was an ally of the late William Goebel, who was chosen to head the ticket as the Gubernatorial candidate. With the reputation of being a successful banker, and being a man of pleasing address, the candidacy of Judge Hager met with much favor among Democrats of the State. Being of the faction within the Democratic party which was about to inaugurate a new order of things in the old Commonwealth, he yet had the respect and good will of the old line fellows, who had long been in control of the public affairs of the State. During the memorable political struggle of 1900 he was a close adviser of Governor Beckham, the youthful successor of the martyred Goebel, and was with him at Frankfort during the dark days when two sets of State officials, one holding the old Capitol by force and the use of the military, and the other quartered at the historic Capital Hotel, both surrounded by armed guards, defied each other for weeks and weeks. He assisted the young Executive in bringing order out of chaos, and has, through the years of his administration, been his close personal friend. Holding for the entire eight years a place in the Executive Cabinet by virtue of being an official, Judge Hager has for four years past held the second place in point of importance in the State Government, that of Auditor of Public Accounts.

Coming to public office from the director's room of a prosperous banking institution, Judge Hager has had a special aptitude for managing financial affairs of the Commonwealth through the offices of Treasurer and Auditor of Public Accounts. Since he entered public life, he has had the satisfaction of seeing the bonded indebtedness of the State wholly wiped out, and Kentucky placed among the half dozen States of the Union which are free from bonded debt. He dropped off his campaign tour in September last for the purpose of stopping off at Frankfort and taking in and burning the last evidence of this bonded debt. During his political career, no man who ever filled an office has given it more of his attention. As promptly as the most humble clerk under him he has been at his desk during the working hours of the day, and often remaining much later in the day than any of his subordinates. He has watched after the business of the Commonwealth as carefully as if it were his own individual business, and has taken as much pride in seeing its indebtedness met and discharged. An evidence of his feeling in this matter is contained in a recent speech which he made, from which is taken the following paragraph:—

"My party has behind it many decades of honorable dealings with my people, and before it many years of usefulness to the citizens of the Commonwealth. It has to its credit a long record of unbroken promises, and the history of the State teems with the wise and salient influences of its principles and policies. In the peace, quiet and happiness of her people Kentucky ranks with the best of the American States. Old Glory as it unfolds to the winds of heaven does not wave over a better people or a happier land, nowhere in the 'land of me free' are the homes indwell with peace and happiness more than in the 'Old Kentucky Home', whose door opens ever in hospitality to the stranger, and across whose portals the waves of cheering sunlight roll and through whose windows pour in sweetest melody the music that God, with his breath has laid in whispering symphony upon the trees. Nowhere under the stars of the blue canopy of God's eternal Home are the people better governed, their interests better protected, or wiser and more beneficial laws exist than in our beloved 'Blue Grass State.'"

NORTH CAROLINA.

Cliffside, Oct. 31, 07.

As I have not written anything recently for publication in your columns, I desire to mention some matters of interest to me in both the State of my adoption and the one of my nativity.

To begin with, I am again teaching school at Cliffside, a prosperous mill town, of Rutherford county, North Carolina, and have charge of 44 pupils and will have more. The public term begins November 23, 1907, of which I am principal.

The building in which school is conducted is a nice, commodious and well arranged structure, built at a cost of over $5000. In it we have a good rural library, 12 electric lights and patent desks.

As to Cliffside mills, a description of a large cotton factory might be of interest to some of your readers who are unfamiliar with things of this kind. This place was begun seven years ago, and now operates 26,110 looms. These looms weave, each about fifty yards of cloth per day, so you can see an out put of 42,500 yards per day is a considerable amount. Over 600 operators are on pay roll, so you can imagine that the expense is considerable. Wages run from fifty cents to two and a half dollars per day, while the superintendents receive from three to seven dollars per day. The work is done by water power, and requires 150 horse power. The mill is on Second Broad River, and generally has a sufficiency of water power. Some times the amount of water is insufficient, and then two immense Carliss engines are used, having each 750 horse power. The plant makes a specialty of gingham goods and operates its own dye house. The population of this place is over twelve hundred, and about two hundred is the number of tenant houses. As the mill runs night and day, not as many can be in school as should be. The health and morals of this place, are better than most cotton mills of the South, and the people have a better dressed, more prosperous appearance. The town is also ideal. In many mill towns of this section, big hulking loafers who are too lazy to work themselves, put their families in the mill, while they loaf, whittle and offer sage advice. Very little loafing or drinking is done here. All cotton mills fail to give a child proper advantages to secure an education. The class who move to cotton mills, never, however, patronize a school in the country, and so the mill is not responsible for the illiteracy. While North Carolina is still low in the scale of illiteracy, it is making better progress. Another hopeful sign is its steady upward march in the cause of temperance. "Ashville, the great Summer resort got on water wagon the other day by immense majority. Charlotte has been there quite a while and Salisbury has come to scratch. Raleigh has come to scratch under good control for quite a while, and Wilmington is getting in good shape. But while I am a temperance advocate, and always vote for prohibition, public sentiment is the court of final resort when it comes to actual sobriety. No matter what laws are, and statute books, these can be evaded. If the National Government were to enact a law making penalty banishment or life penalty for keeping dogs, two-thirds of the citizenship of Cleveland County, North Carolina, would keep 15 hands apiece. Every sheriff, deputy and justice of the peace would be in sympathy with his constituents, for no man can be elected here unless he is a defender of a long eared and worthless hound.

I am "agin" hounds or dogs of any kind except collies and Newfoundlands, but I could not be overseer of the road. When you say any thing against a dog in North Carolina, you provoke strife, and if you rock a dog or scoff at the mourner's bench, you are a common enemy of mankind.

I see that Uncle Jim Morrison still raises corn and tobacco and rides young mules at 92. Does Dr. Voils still caper about and gather the herbs to compound his sovereign remedies? At last accounts he was a joyous young thing of 98, but feared he would feel old before his time from getting wet so much, digging strimmins, tonigans and hell-bucks.

I wish I could come in again this Winter, but fear I cannot. If not, I will try to report a year hence. I am dying to hear a pretty Kentucky girl play the "Old Kentucky Home" again and meet my old acquaintances. I am anxious to see the broad proportions of Col. L. B. Hurt. Also the imposing figure of Hon. Rollin Hurt, the stern features of Hon. James Garnett and the commanding figure of H. B. Garnett. Of course I long to meet John R. Johnson, Jim Frankum, Albin Hurt, Cook U. L. Taylor, "Long hungry" Tom Taylor, Jno. Ed Murrell, "Goat" Murrell, Tobe Hurt, Bud Hurt, Ed Reed, Bob Price, and dozens of others. Of course I want to see Logue Bomar, John Henry Bomar, Uncle Cage Bomar, and Bob Cravens. I'd like to see all my old sweethearts, but they are scattered over several counties. I understand they are all fine looking matrons, while I look pretty tough. When I come back home I'll hunt up every body and tell them a heap down in the books. I asked Dr. Voils through your columns for his photo, but he didn't send it. Among other friends of by gone days, I yearn to meet Philip Voils and Stingo Gadberry. Melvin L. White.

Mr and Mrs J. R. Royste visited their daughter, Mrs Hamilton, at Nell, last week.

J. S. Young, Burnside, graded lumber here one day last week.

J. G. Campbell was on jockey at Edmonton last week.

J. W. Campbell is logging in Cumberland county this week.

R. E. Strongs is grading staves at Bakerton.

A large crowd attended Prof. Hill's singing at Independence last Sunday.

The women of this section wonder how they ever managed to keep their families in clean clothes before R. L. Campbell introduced B. C. Tablets. They now can read the "News" while the washing goes on.

IDEALS.

It is all important that the aim should be both definite and high. It is an old saying that if you aim at the barn door you will never hit the weathercock on the steeple; which means that we must aim high if we would hit big. It is just as true for real success in life. In any department of life we rarely get more than we expect to get. "Accordingly to your faith, be it unto you," involves a principle valid every where. Expectation is the first step in achievement. Confidence is an element of success, even in a game of ball. It is unlikely we will either hit or catch a ball if we are expecting to miss. Some one has said that Columbus practically found America before he left Spain; and so far from being surprised when he saw the Western continent, he would have been surprised if he had not seen it. A man succeeds as he expects to succeed. Predicting ultimate failure, he simply fulfills his own prophecy.

A few years ago a young man in my home city had kindled in his heart a burning desire for an education. He had faith to believe he could obtain it in spite of tremendous difficulties in the way. With less than a hundred dollars in his pocket, and no certainty as to where another dollar was to come from, he started for an Eastern college.

Four years from that time he graduated with some of the highest honors of his class. The reason was he believed he could succeed, and he did. How much better than to "hang around town," forever afraid to aspire! Unbelief invites failure in any department of life; while the opposite fact is that expectant aim is largely the measure of attainment.

DON'T LEAVE YOUR COUNTRY HOME.

"Do not be in haste to leave the safe environments of the country home for the tantalizing, wearing, uncertain glimmer of the world beckoning outside," says the Young People's Weekly.

"Time often proves that when we considered ourselves badly off we were, in reality, well off.

Read what an exchange says of rural home life.

"The country means plenty of room to grow in, an existence board, thoughtful, earnest. Here one's ear is close to the lips of Mother Earth, as she whispers her secrets lovingly and scatters the pearls of health, hope and happiness with lavish hand. Here every day is a story sweet, grand and heaven-inspired. The hours are rounded with things which build up noblest manhood and purest womanhood. Nature daily preaches a sermon, the helpful moral of which is peace of mind, integrity of purpose, and honorable dealings with every fellowman. The farmer knows every morning when he rises that there has been written for him another chapter of the grandest tale ever told. He finds it in the budding flower, the ripened grain, the falling leaf and the murmur of the brook wandering toward the sea."

"At eventide the family gathers around the hearthstone. All are here—father, mother, sister, brother. There are stories to be learned, and wholesome truths to be stored away for future use. Simple games, clean books and papers, songs and jesus charm away the evening, until the hands of the clock point to nine, when the candle is put out, and the day is done. There is no chafing ambition to wear the life away, no yearning for the impossible."

DEATH NOTICE.

Sarah J. Lester fell a sleep Oct. 30th, 1907, with her head pillow on the promises of God. She was born March 11th, 1825, having lived 82 years 7 months 19 days. She was married to Chesley S. Jones Oct. 7th, 1843, and became a Christian 1842. For many years she had testified that she was ready to depart this life and during her last illness talked cheerfully of soon departing.

Said after having lived so long she ought be willing to go. Praised the Lord for his mercies, saying she only dreaded the pain of death. Funeral services were conducted by the writer. The remains were laid to rest at Pleasant Hill church cemetery. She was one of Earth's noble and heroic women, a lover of all good works.

Sour Stomach

No appetite, loss of strength, nervousness, headache, constipation, bad breath, general debility, sour risings, and asthma are the symptoms of a sour stomach. Kodol relieves indigestion. This new discovery represents the natural juices of digestion as they exist in a healthy stomach, and contains the green kidney, tonic and reconstructive properties. Kodol relieves not only relieve indigestion and dyspepsia, but this famous remedy helps all stomach trouble by cleansing, purifying, sweetening, and strengthening the mucous membranes lining the stomach.

S. S. Ball, Lawrence, W. Va., says:

"I was troubled with sour stomach for twenty years. Kodol cured me and we are now using it in milk for our babies."

CHILD LABOR.

The efforts being made by the Charities and Commons to reduce child labor throughout the country, are worthy of the support of every newspaper and every citizen who has the welfare of future generations at heart. The development of industries may force expedites of various kinds, but the dollars made to-day, through the employment of children in factories and mines, will be offset by expenditures in the future of large as to make child labor in the end wholly unprofitable. Wealth created by undeveloped boys and girls will carry with it a curse.

But in efforts to eradicate child labor consideration must be given to another side of the problem. Conditions surrounding working people have first to be ameliorated. The necessity of putting the child to work as soon as he is able to earn a few dollars, must be obviated. The system that compels every member of the family to contribute to its support must be destroyed. This means a radical revolution of present conditions, and how this is to be brought about is one of greatest problems of the day. It stands to reason that through laws and their enforcement little can be accomplished of real value. The child may be taken from the factory and the mill and forced to attend school but the increased burden on the head of the family leaves it in a situation otherwise generally worse rather than better. Yet this should not be so, and would not be were efforts directed to the root of the whole matter, which lies indisputably in present industrial conditions.

Of course, the people must be awakened to the true situation, and through them a public sentiment created sufficiently strong compel all classes of citizens to recognize the mischief that is being done. When this is accomplished there will be laws not simply for taking children from the mills and placing them in school, but for removing the causes that have compelled their employment. What the people demanded they will ultimately get if they earnestly try to obtain it, and the campaign of education now being carried on ought, before long, to produce some tangible results in the treatment of the real cause.—The Grit.

THE ART OF HAPPINESS.

The art of happiness consists in being pleased, with little things. People with great wealth or great power are seldom happy. The leaders of the world, great men or great women, are seldom satisfied. The society leader, with millions at her command and the homage of many men and women, rarely knows the happiness that comes unasked to the young wife or mother in humbler circles. The possession of money decreases the power of enjoyment. A child gets more pleasure out of a sixpenny toy than a millionaire does from a thousand-pound yacht. Sixpence has a greater value to the child than a thousand has to the millionnaire. The toy of life belongs to the little people—the quiet men and women who are satisfied to live their own lives and make little marks on the lives of others. It is in the powder of the least of us to be happy and to make others so.—Ex.

WISE OR OTHERWISE.

No man is totally bad and no woman is totally good.

In trying to save it the average man loses a lot of money.

If you can't do a kind act with good grace don't do it.

Conceit may puff a man up, but it doesn't boost him up.

A guilty conscience needs no accuser, but it usually has one.

Give the average man rope enough and he'll rope you in.

Some people tell the truth only when a lie will not answer the purpose.

Many a man who takes himself seriously is considered a joke by his neighbor.

It's the things you don't care for that people are always willing to hand you.

It's better to have an ounce of confidence in yourself than a pound of faith in your neighbor.

A kind word often does more good than a dollar—but most of us would rather take the money.

After a man has one foot in the grave it doesn't take him very long to get there with both feet.

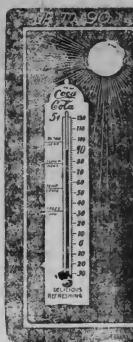

Somehow a man never discovers that he is a fool until long after his neighbors have got next to the fact.

Doubtless the way of the transgressor may be hard, but the people who travel thereon have no time to get lonesome.

The sacrifice that so many of our young men are making to secure a position in a store, is really amusing. In almost all parts of the country let any store-keeper proclaim that he has, or is likely to have, a vacancy, and he is forthwith over run with applications. We know of young men working for from two hundred to three hundred dollars per annum, and boarding themselves, who can command, as mechanics, three times that sum. Why is it that good mechanics of almost every kind are so scarce, and are commanding their own price, while so many young men are turning their backs upon their father's calling, and lying in wait for opportunities to measure calico between dingy walls, fourteen hours a day, for a mere pittance?

A Hard Debt to Pay.

"I owe a debt of gratitude that can never be paid off," writes G. S. Clark, of Westfield, Iowa, "for my rescue from death, by Dr. King's New Discovery. Both lungs were so seriously affected that death seemed imminent, when I commenced taking New Discovery. The ominous dry, hacking cough quit before the first bottle was used, and two more bottles made a complete cure." Nothing has ever equalled New Discovery for coughs, colds and all throat and lung complaints. Guaranteed by T. E. Paul, druggist, 50c and $1. Trial bottle free.

A WORD TO BOYS.

Show us a boy who obeys his parents, who has respect for age, who always has a friendly disposition, and who applies himself diligently to get wisdom and to do good toward others, and if he is not respected and beloved then, there is so such thing as truth in the world. Remember this boys, and you will be respected by others, and grow up and become useful men.

A GOOD WOMAN GONE.

Many hearts were made sad October the nineteenth when God in his divine power and wisdom sent the Angel of death to the home of Mr. Zack Burton and claimed for its victim his beloved wife Mrs. Polly Burton.

The deceased was reared in Adair county and was living near Purdy Ky. when the end came, Saturday afternoon, between twelve and one o'clock. Mrs. Burton's maiden name was Powell. She leaves six girls and three boys, who names are as follows.

Mesdames Nancy Atkins, Sarah Shepherd, Lucy Bryant, Martha Powell, Mary Triplett, Annie L. Hood; Messrs. Willie, Lincoln, and Sam Burton. All of her children were with her during her illness except Mrs. Martha Powell who is in Oklahoma.

A good woman is a priceless gift from heaven, and only those who have lost a devoted mother know how to sympathize with the heart broken children.

Her death was due to the infirmities of old age. She was seventy-two years old when she died. And had been a member of the Baptist church for fifty-five years, she lived and died the death of the righteous. When "Aunt Polly" was dying with loving eyes she looked up and said, "I am going home to live with Jesus."

They were about the last words she spoke that could be understood; but as her last breath was leaving her she seemed to be trying to tell her aged husband and children to meet her in heaven.

May they all live that when they are called away from this earth that they will meet their mother in that heavenly home where parting will be no more.

All that kind and loving hands could do to relieve her of her suffering was done; but the hand of God was the only one that could relieve the pain. She was confined to her bed about seven weeks.

The remains were laid to rest Sunday afternoon at the Bear Wallow burying ground.

May the husband, children, and grandchildren in this sad hour of bereavement put their trust in him who said "Cast all your trouble upon me, and I will give you rest".

The sorrowing family and relatives have the sincerest sympathy of the writer.

A Friend.

SHOW HIM YOUR HANDS.

perform them.

She rose to prepare her father's breakfast, and she toiled into the night to complete the tasks of the day. Is it any wonder that at the end of ten years the slender strength was exhausted and she was stricken down?

At thirteen she lay dying. A neighbor sat by her bed, giving what comfort and solace she could. The little face grew troubled. "Isn't that I'm afraid to die? I'm not. But I'm so ashamed," the little girl said.

"Ashamed of what?" asked her companion in surprise.

"Why, it's this way. You know how it's been with us since mama died; I've been so busy, I've never done anything for Jesus, and when I get to Heaven and meet Him, I shall be so ashamed! Oh, what can I tell him?"

Great sobs shook the neighbor's breast as she gathered the little, calloused, work-scared hands into her own and said, "I wouldn't tell Him anything, dear. Just show Him your hands."

NEWS NOTES.

John Dunn was found dead in bed in Ballard county with a pistol in his hand and a bullet wound in his head.

The trial of George A. Pettibone at Boise City has been postponed until November 18 by agreement of the attorneys.

The steel plant of the United States Steel Corporation at Columbus closed down indefinitely throwing 800 men out of work.

The loss of life from the earthquake in Calabria is estimated at from 20 to about 120. The damage to property was heavy.

"Doc" Johnson, a wealthy lumber dealer of Lawrence county, was fatally injured while stealing a ride on a freight train.

A hung jury resulted in the trial of Walter Day, former State Treasurer, who is accused of forging the name of his uncle, Floyd Day.

Three armed men held up a freight train within five miles of Los Angeles, Cal., wounded one of the train crew, robbed them of $250 and two watches and made their escape.

Four men were killed at Ashland, Wis., by the blowing up of a mixing mill of the Atlantic Dynamite Company's factory. Two hundred pounds of nitroglycerine exploded.

To the man who owns the farm, the money he makes does not always represent the year's profits. It might be that there was not a cent of money in sight and yet the year might be the best one in one's life. What is the condition of the farm, it's stock, its buildings, its fences, the condition of the lands with regard to the years to come, or through the crop that is to follow? These are things that are of as much importance as the money you take in from the crop, yes, even more.

WITH OUR CORRESPONDENTS

Week's Happenings—News Important or Otherwise as Reported By Our Corps of Correspondents.

THURLOW.

Getting wood, and sorghum making is the order of the day.

Mr. Athen Fletcher and family of Greensburg, were visiting at J. E. Loy's Sunday.

Mrs. Fannie Brown and Miss Mattie Arnett were shopping at Liletown Thursday.

William Curry bought out a new saw mill to his farm near Exie, where he will saw a large yard of logs.

J. E. Loy and family were visiting at the home of Mr. Rufus Burress, of Clover Lick Monday night.

J. I. Whitlock, of Exie, and Richard Henderson, of this place, have been jurymen in the Federal court in Louisville for the past two weeks.

Prof. R. O. Cabell closed a successful singing school at Greasy Creek Wednesday night.

Claud Huffman and wife, of Exie, started to Illinois Monday to make their future home.

Dr. W. B. Helm and Miss Lula Blakeman spent Tuesday in Greensburg.

C. E. Blakeman and wife, of Greensburg, have been visiting the former's mother, Mrs. Martha Blakeman for the past two weeks. Mrs. C. E. Blakeman's health is not good.

Mesdames Wheat, Chapman, Grider and Mr. James Helm, of Glenville, were visiting their brother, Dr. W. B. Helm, of this place, last week.

Uncle Jeffrie Jeffries is very low with dropsy.

Our first quarterly meeting will convene at Mt. Lebanon the first Saturday and Sunday. Mr. Daniel Rucker died at his late home near Greensburg Thursday, October 31st, with a complication of diseases. He was buried at the Bethlehem cemetery.

GRADYVILLE.

We had a good rain Friday night.

Thos. Dowell has been on the sick list for a few days.

Geo. H. Nell returned from Louisville a few days ago and reports the stock market dull.

Mrs. G. H. Nell and Mrs. L. C. Hindman visited relatives at Milltown one day last week.

Several from Milltown community attended the speaking, here last Saturday.

Dr. L. C. Nell and his brother, Elbert returned from the Louisville market last Friday.

Miss Nancy Grady spent several days of last week visiting relatives in the community of Milltown.

J. A. Diddle was transacting business at Sparksville last Thursday.

Uncle Charlie Yates and Strong Hill have been making some improvements on their feed barns.

Lewis Cabell, of Miami, was in our town one day last week looking after fire insurance.

Mr. E. T. Keltner, our old neighbor and friend, of East

Fork, passed through here one day last week en route for Columbia.

Mr. Bardin, the well-known stave man of Greensburg, had a representative here one day last week looking after staves, who informed your reporter that there had been recently a great decline in staves.

Mr. Thomas Yates and daughter, the well-known photographer, of East Fork section, was in our midst one day last week delivering some work.

Mr. C. O. Moss, one of our efficient merchants as well as a strong and good Methodist attended the first Quarterly meeting for this Conference year at Pickett's Chapel last Monday.

Mr. Geo. H. Nell, it is said that he has the best lot of staves now yarded that has been gotten out in this section for years. These staves are unsold.

Mr. Thos. Gowen, one of our best citizens and certainly one of the best gardeners, had on our market last week some of the largest onions and Irish potatoes that has been here this season. They was ready sale at 75¢ and $100 per bushel.

Messrs. Coomer & Taylor, of Bart, have bought the most of this years production of tobacco, paying from $5.00 to $8.00 per hundred. Our farmers will have their crop on the market in a few days.

Mr. J. R. Yates, one of our progressive farmers sawed here last week some of the finest poplar logs that has been brought to this mill for many years. Albert Parson did the sawing, we must say here, there was never a finer lot of poplar lumber for sale than these logs made.

Mrs. W. B. Moore and children, are visiting relatives in Russell county this week. Mr. Moore is the fireman at our mill during his absence.

W. L. Fletcher is filling his capacity with honor to the mill and credit to himself.

Our town continues to improve. Our farmers are getting their fences replaced with great deal of wire fence, dwelling and business houses are going up, it will be only a short time until Mitchell Denny and his father will erect a large and commodious blacksmith shop, houses that was wrecked by the flood are being repaired rapidly.

We must say here that there is not a mill in the county, or adjoining counties, that is doing more business than the one here. It is a daily occurrence for this mill to ship out any where from 3,000 to 5,000 lbs. of flour and we must say it is flour of the best quality that gives universal satisfaction. It has also encouraged our farmers to take more interest in producing wheat from the fact it brings a market right to their door for all their surplus. Their miller Logan Hagan, (that goes without saying one of the best millers in the State,) is always ready to accommodate his customers for exactly the amount of flour that is in their wheat.

Hon. M. Rey Yarberry spoke here last Friday night to a fairly good audience, also John M.

Sullivan addressed the people on Saturday afternoon. Both delivered their messages with great interest, both showing the corruption of both parties, we take it that neither one added a single vote to their party. They perhaps aroused a sensational feeling that caused the voters to move out a little earlier in the day. It is strange that wise men will differ on any subject.

Hallowe'en night was strictly observed in our city. We want to say just here, to our boys that it is all right for you to have your fun. We were all boys once and we know what it is to have sport, like you too know that are governed by laws and we have never heard of a law that makes any provision for this night. So the things you did that night you are just as guilty in the sight of the law as if it had occurred some other night. Now don't you console your selves by thinking people don't know who you are, are every one of you can be spotted if it becomes necessary. You did things that was detrimental. We will not at this time mention to the public things you all did for you all know that we advised you never to be guilty of such conduct.

RUSSELL SPRINGS.

Rev. B. F. Vails is erecting a residence opposite the Methodist church.

Messrs. Thos. Smith and Felix Rexroat of Fonthill were in town one day last week.

Misses Ida and Zula Miller of Bart were shopping in Russell Springs one day last week.

F. L. Wilson is having the finishing touch put on his new residence. And it adds considerably to the appearance.

Albert Darnell, the "Down Grocer" is making an addition to his store building.

Mrs. Lula Wilson and little daughter are visiting relatives near Somerset.

Ex-Supt. T. S. Isbell is at home for a few days.

We understand that we are to have a series of meetings to begin at the Baptist church in a short time.

Our merchants are "getting busy" preparing for the winter trade.

Work on the buildings will be resumed in a few days.

ROWES CROSS ROADS.

I am just in from my Annual Conference, which held its session in Hancock county, Kentucky. We had a good conference with Bishop Carter in the chair.

Mrs. Frank Lawless of near this place, died of consumption last week, after an illness of many months.

Mrs. Bill Cook is much better at this writing.

Miss Lora Hadley got badly hurt last Sunday. Some boys were playing ball, and let a bat slip and hit Lora in the face. To my mind base ball is the worst game that ever was played in any country. If people got crippled and killed at the house of worship like they do at these games, the law would stop preaching. May the time soon come when something better will take the place.

Bill Helm and wife, are both much improved in health. They have been down sick for years.

Mr. Author Shearer was married last week to Mrs. Otha Shearer, his brother's widow.
